The Agility Supply Chain Review

What is it?

A consultative, bespoke process that will reduce the cost and increase the productivity of your international supply chain. We do this by reviewing, evaluating and optimising your supply chain and supporting processes.

What are the benefits?

It will save you money. These savings take the form of eliminating non value add activities from your business process and reduced transport and distribution costs through increased consolidation and inventory visibility. We also look at strategies to increase stock turn and improve service to your customers.

What is the cost?

This service is free. We are confident that following the Supply Chain Review you will want to follow our implementation plan to deliver the benefits of our findings.

How many staff will be involved?

Our mantra is “go see and ask why”. We will conduct interviews with key members of the supply chain function and those who interact with it at all levels as well as collecting data. However we always allow staff to get on with their day jobs to ensure business as usual.

How long does it take?

Typically 2-3 days. However as each Supply Chain Review is a bespoke process we will flex this time according to the need and complexity of your supply chain. We hope to collect data and present back to you within 3-4 weeks

How does it work?

With you. We spend time on site, in your business to understand your how your international supply chain is managed, the processes and systems you use and the service your market demands.

Who does it?

The review is conducted by our Supply Chain Solutions Manager and supporting team. We apply LEAN methodologies and business process re-engineering, continuous improvement and cost down strategies.

Implementation

Our Implementation manager is present from day one of the review, giving him an intimate understanding of your business and input into the strategy agreed. He is therefore ideally placed to guarantee a seamless transition.

Case Study

Customer Challenge

A leading international high street retailer of beauty and cosmetic products were experiencing issues in aligning increased output from their manufacturing site in the UK with increasing service demands from a variety of overseas retail outlets as they expanded their global footprint through a network of owned and franchised business models. In order to optimise this rapidly evolving and increasingly demanding supply chain the client engaged Agility to develop an agile, lean and demand driven operating model.

“Agility have revolutionised the way we manage our supply chain bringing significant process efficiencies and cost savings.”

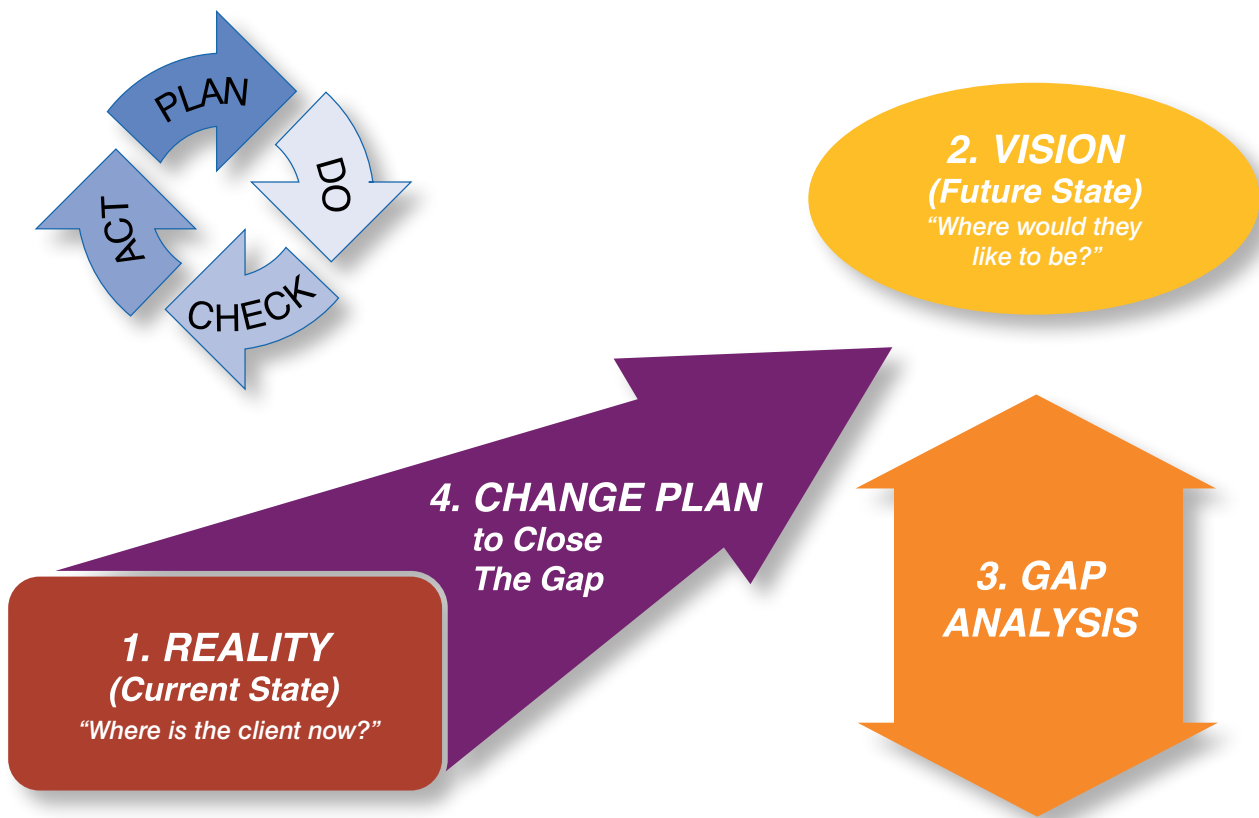

- International High Street Retailer
